COMMITTEE EXPLAINS.

A criticism appeared in the Kentuckian under date of July 9th, 1918, which the local committee in charge of the sale of the War Savings Stamps feel is unwarranted under the facts.

In the first instance the article printed in Sunday's Courier-Journal which was copied by the Kentuckian, is likewise unwarranted under the facts.

A registration will be held by Hon. R. E. Cooper, who is chairman of the Council of Defense for Christian county. This registration will be held on Saturday the 20th day of July, 1918. This registration will be held by the Council of Defense under the act of the Kentucky Legislature passed during the present year. Under this act Mr. Cooper undoubtedly has power to call and hold this registration, and if any citizen of the County fails to register without a legal excuse Mr. Cooper as chairman, has power to report such cases to the Circuit Judge, and have them fined and imprisoned under the act. This is a matter however that does not come in the province of the Committee for Christian county in charge of the sale of the War Savings Stamps. As citizens the committee will support Mr. Cooper in every way in holding such registration, and if Mr. Cooper calls on any member of the Committee for any work such request will be gladly complied with up to the present time Christian county has purchased about Three Hundred Thousand Dollars worth of War Savings Stamps and the work is not complete and will continue until the quota for the county is completed. The United States Government, through its proper official, has requested that the names of all slackers be published. In the determination of just who is a slacker, the utmost fairness will be shown. Such an important question as this, which shall determine the standing of a citizen in the future, will not be left in irresponsible hands, nor will it be placed with any one or two solicitors. A committee with such power will be appointed most probably by the Council of Defense, and any citizen who is reported as a slacker will have the opportunity of a fair trial before this committee before his name will be posted as such on the Bulletin Board adjoining the post office in Hopkinsville. All who are branded as slackers will bear the mark of Cain forever in this community, and for this reason the utmost care will be taken before any man or woman shall be branded in such a way. Let us hope that there are no slackers in this county, and that all of our citizens will do their duty, and if they do their duty fairly there is nothing to fear.

Let everyone remember that the United States Government is in charge of the War Savings Campaign in Christian county. The committee are but private and are merely carrying out the instructions of the Government if the heavens fall without apology to anyone, and the government has requested every county in the United States to list the slackers, and Christian county will carry out these instructions and there is no occasion for anyone except the slackers to be excited over this policy.

Notice has been given the alien property custodian's office that a formal move may be expected in a few days to recover possession of property of Mrs. Adolphus Busch, widow of the millionaire St. Louis brewer, taken over recently by the government. The claim will be made that Mrs. Busch is a loyal American citizen and that her long stay in Germany with relatives should not affect her property rights.

If the Franco-Italian push in Albania keeps up, the Austrians will soon be giving out another Macedonian cry to "Come over and help."

The telegraph strike, begun on Monday was called off the same day, at Chicago, a complete failure.

The announcement has been made that no 1918 registrants will be called before August.

Your uniform belongs to Uncle Sam. You are its caretaker. Remember, a stitch in time saves nine.

MANY KILLED IN COLLISION AT NASHVILLE

TWO PASSENGER TRAINS COME TOGETHER IN HEAD-END CRASH IN BROAD DAYLIGHT.

DEAD NUMBER SIXTY-FIVE

WITH 78 OTHERS INJURED MANY OF WHOM MAY DIE.

Nashville, Tenn., July 9.—Probably sixty-five persons were killed and seventy-five or more injured in a passenger wreck on the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway seven miles from Nashville at 7:15 o'clock this morning. Every available doctor and nurse in the city is at the scene of the disaster. Ambulances are bringing the dead and injured to the hospitals and undertaking establishments. Several coaches were telescoped, and the passengers are being cut out of the cars with great difficulty. Many have died since reaching the hospitals.

The wreck was caused by a head-on collision of passenger train No. 1, from Memphis and St. Louis, and passenger train No. 4, bound from Nashville to Memphis. It occurred on Dutchman's Grade, near the Harding Road crossing, part of the cars being under the Harding Road viaduct.

Both of the engines and three baggage cars were completely wrecked, and the first baggage car on No. 1 was telescoped. The first combination coach on No. 4, from Memphis, heavily loaded with whites and negroes, was ripped from end to end, and few if any of its passengers escaped uninjured. Many were killed almost instantly.

A number of women in one car on No. 1, were killed and their bodies are still in the wreckage. They are in a confused heap with bedding, trunks and debris scattered about them.

The smell of charred cars and the bleeding bodies lying in the sun has added to the horror of the tragedy. This is classed as the worst wreck in the history of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway. The latest estimate of the dead is placed at 100, more than 40 bodies having already been recovered.

About Thirty White Men Die. Between twenty and twenty-five bodies of white victims were at the local undertaking parlors early this afternoon and it is not believed the number of white persons killed exceeded thirty. Those that were not identified were roughly dressed and had been taken from the coach carrying men from Memphis to the powder plant here.

Two Nashville aviation Lieutenants were in the wreck. Lieut. Don N. Long, was killed, and Lieut. J. D. Andrews, Jr., escaped with slight injuries.

Four cars, two sleepers and two coaches of train No. 1 did not leave the track and suffered but little damage. There were very few passengers in these, however, and none of these were hurt, save two elderly ladies in the sleeper, who were badly shaken up.

Two cars, or what was left of them, took fire and burned. There are a number of bodies in these, and it is not known if any of the victims were living when the flames reached them.

Many Negro Workmen.

Nashville, July 9.—Nearly all of the 100 fatalities in the head-on collision to-day between two passenger trains near Nashville, were negro workmen on a local from Nashville on its way to work at a near-by powder plant. The other train was an express from Memphis and the west and after two engines rared and fell beside track, the heavy coaches of the express ploughed through baggage car of the accommodation and demolished two other coaches.

Every time you peel your potatoes raw, the kaiser thanks you.

COMMITTEE STANDS 7 TO 3

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, July 9.—After three hours examination of Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union Telegraph Co., the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee to-day voted 7 to 3 to report without amendment or further hearing the House resolution authorizing the Government control, during the war of telegraph and telephone lines. Chairman Smith plans reporting the resolution to the Senate tomorrow but it is not understood whether or not he will urge its immediate consideration, thus replacing the agricultural bill with a prohibition rider. The Senate leaders expect a bitter contest, but believe a vote can be reached soon and no further hearings will be ordered, in view of the President's insistence upon early action.

THE KILLING OF MIRBACH

German newspapers give many columns to developments in the Mirbach case, particularly London telegrams from Moscow praising the work that Count von Mirbach did there and describing the alleged treacherous manner by which the assassins gained entrance to his office by posing as delegates of a commission for combating the social revolutionist movement. It is stated that they fired their revolvers, not only a Count von Mirbach but also a German Councillor Kelsler and Lieut. Muller, who were in the room. Immediately after the firing they jumped from the window, hurling hand grenades back of them as they jumped. They leaped into a waiting automobile and escaped.

DEMONSTRATION

GIVEN TODAY OF WALLIS TRACTOR—FARMERS EVERYWHERE ARE MUCH INTERESTED.

Farmers of this and other counties will have an opportunity today to witness a demonstration of the Wallis Farm Tractor and what it will do pulling three big J. I. Case plows and doing the work of nine good mules and three men. This demonstration will be given by J. E. Boulton, Agent for Christian and Todd counties, on the farm of F. M. Dulin on the Salubia and Casky road about 1 mile from Casky.

This tractor and plow were driven through the city today and created quite a sensation and much comment. The advent of the tractor in this section is a good omen for the farming industry and will do much to help solve the labor and mule shortage. As far as possible farmers should witness this demonstration.

"WALKING MUN" WILSON

HELD NOT A VAGRANT

Madisonville, Ky., July 9.—"Walking Mun" Wilson, former representative of Hopkins county in the legislature, arrested last week on a vagrancy charge, was acquitted by a jury in the county court. The trial attracted a great crowd and "Walking Mun," who is still the same unique character of old, had many witnesses in his behalf.

He recently worked two days on the streets for the city and when he was paid he turned his check over to the Red Cross. He is a present waiting on tables at a local cafe.

FLIERS KILLED.

With American Army in France July 8.—Alan Ash of Chicago, a member of the Lafayette flying squadron, has been killed in combat with several German machines over Soissons. His machine when falling was seen to burst into flames.

Warren T. Hobbs of Worcester Mass., another member of the Lafayette flying squadron, was killed June 26. Forced to fly low because of engine trouble, he was brought down by anti-aircraft guns.

RUINS OF COURTHOUSE OF REIMS

This is what repeated enemy bombardments have left of the courthouse at Reims. Through the ruined entrance to the building a new perspective of the famous cathedral, that has been shattered by German shot and shell, is obtained.

THE PLAN TO FREE RUSSIA

IS RAPIDLY TAKING SHAPE AND CONCERTED ACTION WILL BE TAKEN BY ALLIES.

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, July 9.—The entente governments are now fully advised of the views of the Washington administration as to the best means of carrying out the President's pledge to "stand behind Russia." It is understood the project is taking a shape, which it is hoped will counteract German influence and lead the people to rehabilitate themselves without exciting distrust.

There is reason to believe the proposal to send American business men to carry material aid to the people, with armed guards to insure the safety of its personnel and supplies from Germans, is forming the basis of negotiations between Washington and the entente capitals. The matter has assumed a new phase, however, with a plan to make both commission and guards international in composition, thus tending to disarm suspicion on the part of Russians that any single power seeks selfish gains.

WAR SUMMARY.

(By Associated Press.)

The allied forces on the west front, while waiting for the German high command to begin a new assault, continue launching sudden thrusts at the enemy line. One of these, by the French west of the Oise and north of the Matz river, won considerable ground along the Compegne road.

There has been considerable fighting along the Labasse Canal and north of the Somme in the Pleadry sector.

Berlin claims that British at both places were repulsed.

The French and Italians continue to make rapid strides in Albania and may have turned the Austrian right wing.

ON FRENCH FRONT.

The French hit the German lines a smashing blow early today in an area almost directly north of Paris, where the Germans were stopped after five days of fighting in their thrust toward the capital about a month ago.

The attack was delivered along a two and a half mile front and at some points more than a mile was dug into enemy positions.

Four hundred and fifty prisoners were taken.

The area chosen for the blow was northwest of Compegne forest between Montdidier and Oise.

On the British front there has been only raids and on the Marne front the Americans are holding several miles of line.

Paris today reports considerable artillery activity.

CAMPAIGN FOR MORE EGGS.

The Federal Food Administration for Kentucky is making a special effort to secure the production of "more Eggs and better eggs," according to announcement from the office of Allen R. Carter, chairman of the poultry and egg division, in Louisville.

"Eggs from Kentucky, if properly taken care of, should command just as good price as eggs from any other state in the union, for the hens in Kentucky are just as good as the hens in any other state and produce just as good eggs. It is what the farmers, the country merchants and dealers do to the eggs after they have been produced by the hens that causes the damage," said Mr. Carter, who gave seven rules, which, if observed, will result in eggs being worth more to the farmer. The rules given follow:

Produce infertile eggs by removing the roosters from the flock in the summer time.

Provide clean nests and keep eggs clean.

Gather the eggs twice daily during the summer, to prevent them from being heated by the hen.

Keep them in a cool, dry place away from flies.

Market them at least twice each week.

Insist that they be bought on a quality graded basis.

The many reasons why eggs should be candled also are explained by Mr. Carter. Without candling, it is impossible to tell the value of an egg without breaking it. The more general candling of eggs has not only relieved the dealer of a burden, but it has resulted in giving the farmer who sells good eggs the benefit of his care and foresight. No longer do egg producers suffer a loss on account of bad eggs marketed by a few. The loss now goes where it belongs. The careful producer will get more and the consumer will pay less. Every egg shipped or sold must be fit for human food.

"A bad egg feeds nobody, brings no profit to anybody—and helps only the enemy," asserts Mr. Carter.

TWO NEW TEACHERS FOR CITY SCHOOLS

Misses Camilla Allensworth and Doris Claggett, both graduates of the High School, were elected yesterday to fill vacancies in the faculty of the graded of the city schools. The vacancies were created by the failure of Miss Robbie Tarry and Miss Ellen Davidson to accept.

The twins—U-boats and wasteful navy—are a menace to the allies.

U-boats and wastefulness are both a menace to the allies.

Napoleon said "An army fights on its belly." Waste of food over here will mean shorter rations over there.

Olan Emberton, Glasgow, severely wounded, and McKinley Pigg, Louisville, missing in action, were Kentuckians in Saturday's casualty list.

The figures on 5200 wounded in France, in the American forces, show that 532 have died of wounds or one in ten.

Alabama, where Italian activity has started, is across the Adriatic sea from the southern end, or heel of Italy, and the line that has begun to move extends across Serbia to Salonika, Greece. It is known as the Macedonian front.

"Changes in Russia are imminent," says the Frankfurter Zeitung. "If the entente's enterprises should lead to the collapse of the present government, then not much will remain of the peace treaties. Our problems would then become more complicated than ever. Let us hope that in the solution of them the sword will play as little a role as possible. Nevertheless the central powers on no account can permit the entente to find fresh resources in the east."

The program for the midsummer meeting of the Kentucky Press Association at Crab Orchard Springs July 18, 19 and 20 includes among the speakers, F. M. Sackett, state food administrator; Hon. W. J. Price, minister to Panama, and James Spaid, editor of Farm and Family. Other addresses will come from members of the association, but it seems next to impossible to shut out some outsiders. J. C. Alcock, secretary, announces that social features will not be lacking to make this year's meeting come up to the high standard of former years.

German newspapers are now pointing to Gen. Savinkoff, who was minister in the Kerensky cabinet, as the man behind the von Mirbach plot which is being gradually developed by the Teuton press into a great anti-German movement backed by all those men whom Germany has found to be a hindrance in her plans of aggression in Russia. A Moscow telegram circulated by the Wolf news bureau, of Berlin, says:

"Savinkoff is considered to be responsible for the deed. He is, moreover, said to be closely connected with the Czech-Slovak and social revolutionary movements. His whereabouts are unknown."

SOME OF WASHINGTON'S NEW GOVERNMENT BUILDINGS

EDITH CAVELL'S DEATH AVENGED BY A BELGIAN

The secret story of the tragedy of Edith Cavell is told in the July number of the Red Cross magazine and its unraveling of this world's mystery makes it one of the wonder tales of the war. The author's graphic description of the way the English nurse was betrayed to the Germans, how her murder was avenged and what happened to her avenger should be authentic.

The signer of the article is T. Topping, who was a private secretary to Brand Whitlock, American minister to Belgium. He was stationed in Brussels where took place the gruesome incident he has incorporated into "The Avenging of Edith Cavell."

Miss Cavell's arrest, he says, created hardly a ripple among the many gloomy tragedies daily enacted throughout Belgium until—

"Brussels awoke to find herself face to face with a new horror. It was October 12, 1915. About 5:30 that morning, gentle, little Miss Cavell had been led out into the yard of St. Giles prison and wantonly shot down. And blood red offices, posted all over the walls of the city, shrieked the news of the abhorrent deed to a dismayed population.

"It soon became an open secret that Miss Cavell had been apprehended and convicted through the denunciation of one she had befriended. His name was freely mentioned among the coterie of well informed Belgians who assembled at various meeting places in commune of Ixelles.

"He was called Van der—, no I shall not mention his name.

"He was a young man of military age and bad habits and the emoluments received from his work in one of the departments of public service of the city were inadequate to gratify his expensive tastes and satiate his craving for pleasure.

"The Germans had become aware of a leak across the frontier through which filtered numerous young men capable of bearing arms against them and anxious to do so. Van der—, affecting profound patriotism and professing deep hatred for the violators of his country went to Miss Cavell and requested to be helped into Holland. He was introduced to Baucq (the man who was shot at the same time as Miss Cavell) and all arrangements were made for his passage into the Netherlands. On the eve of his departure, when he penetrated the secrets of the organization Van der— repaired to the kommandantur, and the next day Miss Cavell, Baucq and Sereriu were arrested. Incidentally, that same day Van der— was buying wine for two women in a cafe near the Place de Bruckers."

The indignation that swept the Belgians when these facts became known took form in the heart of "a mild inoffensive looking little chap, a beardless youth of 25," Louis Brill he constituted himself her avenger. Brill had escaped once to France but had returned and was in hiding. He possessed two automatics, though it was known to be death to be caught with firearms. He started a chum one night by exclaiming:

"One of the pills (pruniaux) in this Brownie is for the man who betrayed Miss Cavell and I shall never rest until I get him."

"Days, weeks passed, and the betrayer of the heroic English nurse continued to walk the streets of Brussels with apparent impunity.

But the long patient shadow of Van der— went on. It could be done only at night, as Brill did not dare to leave his room during the day."

Betrayer Is Shot to Death.

Finally, one night, the avenger got his victim. The body still warm, was picked up in the street—

"It was the body of Van der—. When searched at the police station besides a goodly sum of money in German bills of large denomination there was found among other papers a little perfumed note written in feminine hand and which read:

"I will meet you this evening at P. near Mark Josephine."

"There is no doubt that more than 100 persons in Brussels among them at least ten members of the Belgian police force, knew who had committed this murder, or rather who had executed his sentence. But weeks went on and no arrests were made. And so no surprise was felt when one day a notice was posted that 'following the apathy displayed by the Belgian police' the case had been taken out of their hands and would be handled by the German military police."

The Germans finally discovered Brill's hiding place and tried to capture him one afternoon.

"Brill, warned in time, clambered to the roof with two plain clothes men in hot pursuit and blazing away at him. After a run of a few hundred feet over roofs he reached the edge of one overlooking a lane of about twelve feet wide and without hesitation the fugitive leaped across it landing safely on another house a story lower and eluded his pursuers who looked about, hesitated, consulted one another and could not muster up sufficient courage to take the plunge. Brill made his way to the street and was gone."

He even succeeded in getting away from Brussels. Then he returned to thank the man who had warned him, fell into a trap and was captured. The Kaiser's minions lost no time in sentencing him to death. His parents were waiting outside the walls of the prison one drizzly morning when the dawn was shattered by—"a volley, the crash of twelve rifles, a final pistol shot, and what had been Louis Brill lay on the wet grass close to the earth that was soon to swallow him forever.

"Brill's father died of a broken heart a few weeks later, after having been refused permission to give the body of his child a Christian burial."

LIST OF PRISONERS.

Names of seventy-two additional American soldiers held in prison camps in Germany were announced last night by the War Department One Kentuckian is in the list.

Do not stint the soldiers in the trenches by wasting food in the camps.

REX THEATRE REDECORATED

THROUGHOUT AND MADE MORE ATTRACTIVE THAN EVER—WORK ON PRINCESS BEING RUSHED.

In order to demonstrate more fully its appreciation of the patronage of its picture show houses, the Crescent Amusement Company has about completed the repainting and decorating of the Rex Theatre in this city. The entire interior of the house has been gone over carefully and treated in the most careful and artistic manner and paint and varnish have not been used sparingly.

The ceiling overhead is painted a bluish gray, the large side panels treated with old rose, and the borders are tinted a beautiful light green. The foyer is finished in a deep green wainscoting with old rose above. The woodwork is a deep cherry red which is in perfect harmony with the other decorations. The decoration moulding and swinging lights have been retouched a glossy white and some new lighting and a big exhaust fan have been installed.

Movie goers will find The Rex now a more attractive and comfortable place than ever and no doubt will appreciate the efforts of Mr. Stockley, local manager for the owners to provide his patrons with everything including high class pictures, right up to the minute and the best business will afford.

In the meantime, The Princess is fast being rebuilt and will be finer and handsomer than ever.

Mark Twain's Democracy.

When Mark Twain published his "A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court," he made a laughing stock of evil institutions, and of the deluded mortals who uphold them. He put himself on record in a way that really did not need the events of today to vindicate.

"There is plenty good enough material for a republic," he said, "in the most degraded people that ever existed—even in the Russians—plenty of manhood in them—even in the Germans, if one could but force it out of its timid and anapropos privacy, to overthrow and trample in the mud any throne that was ever set up and any nobility that ever supported it."

The U-boats are wasting some of our food; don't be a U-boat.

THESE TWO MEN REFIT THE ARMY

Lively Work of Major Fawcett and Captain Thrall at Camp Blank.

SPRUCE UP FOR OVERSEAS

Hungry and Ill-Clothed Soldiers Wait For and Made Spick-and-Span for the Voyage to Battle
Front in France.

Washington.—Major George W. Fawcett is the camp quartermaster at an American embarkation camp. It is his first business to see that troops going overseas find comfortable, healthful temporary quarters, and have plenty of food. The camp is more than a rest resort for travelers. When it was established less than a year ago incoming troops were warned that they must not rely on getting any of their overseas outfit here. This is no completely changed under Major Fawcett's administration that there is nothing an organization can possibly need which this camp will not supply nearly as fast as the men can be marched up to his warehouses to take the supplies away.

Major Fawcett has a ten-foot square office in an unpainted shack. He sits at a little desk with two clerks, one behind him and the other at his side. A telephone receiver is strapped over his head all the time. The officers requiring supplies for the present and future who come into this camp make mistakes, big and little, but not one of them has ever got anything worse than an amused or an astonished grin from the camp quartermaster. "It is easier and quicker to give a man what you know he wants," the major says, "than to waste your time, his, and the government's, by quarreling with him because he has not put his needs in proper shape."

Makes It Easy for Them.

Army regulations require particular printed formulas for requisitions, prepared with scrupulous attention to small details. Major Fawcett has taught his men to accept any scribbled memorandum on the back of an envelope or a bit of wrapping paper, tell the applicant for supplies to come back in half an hour, and, then, when he returns, hand to him a perfectly arranged form of requisition, stating all his needs with military exactness, and at the same time directing him to a storehouse where his supply is already waiting.

The interior traffic of the camp has increased until 100 big motortrucks are tearing through the streets from dawn until dark, and half of them work far into the night. The more the camp speeds up the more troops Major Fawcett invites the war department to send through the camp. The ideal of seeing to it that no man crosses the sea for service with clothing and equipment which is not new, or as good as new, has just about been reached. Troops are detrained from the interior in dusty, faded clothing, patched and pulled out of shape, and go onto their ships in an incredibly short time dressed up like a show window display.

His lieutenants in charge of money disbursements, subsistence, construction, transportation, and recreation are at his door with brand-new complications every few minutes. Bewildered supply officers, who have come to the camp without the slightest idea of what is expected of them (and who would have resigned before coming had they known) appear at his door looking scared; they listen for a few minutes to the general run of his telephone conversation, forget their care, answer his questions with a promptness and a definiteness which seem to surprise the men themselves, and go out with their heads up, smiling confidently, and accomplish changes and refittings and substitutions such as they had never dreamed of.

Work Well Divided.

The work under Major Fawcett subdivided itself naturally so that no disproportionate burden falls on any one department, with one exception. For accounting purposes it is absolutely necessary that one man should have charge of what, in quartermaster language, is called "property." He must sign every invoice and assume responsibility for it financially. This job under Major Fawcett is that of Capt. C. E. Thrall, Q. M. R. C. Captain Thrall has counted it a big night when he has had more than four hours' sleep since the war started.

Captain Thrall has never been caught rattled. He appears now and then, but laughs at himself when he sweats and he never lets anybody else get rattled. Captain Thrall is a much more tired looking man than he was a year ago—but like his chief he has found that the best way to keep men moving is to meet ignorance and stupidity alike with a friendly grin and straighten them out as they go along.

Major Fawcett left the regular army 17 years ago and was for many years purchasing agent for the Philippine constabulary. Captain Thrall came from the ranks of the regular army.

Beggar Had $900.

Memphis, Tenn.—John Johnston, a professional beggar, cursed a white woman when she refused to buy a pencil from him. He was arrested. At the city jail when he was searched $900 in currency was found in his clothes.

ICE CREAM SODAS FOR BOYS IN FRANCE

Y. M. C. A. Orders Fruit Flavors
for One Million Summer Drinks.

One million ice cream sodas.

A-ah!

Sufficient to cool the throats of a flock of giraffes—ice cold, fizzy, flavored with "strawberry," "rasberry," "cherry," "peach or pineapple."

Um-m!

They may not seem so imposing here, with soda fountains on every important business corner, but—oh, boys! won't they be sipping packages of heaven to the American boys over in the war zone? Over there where, if reports be true, drug stores, masquerading as chemists' shops, try to get by with nothing but drugs.

France's pet drinks, champagne and red wine, are going to turn an aching green with jealousy this summer when the great American drink begins fusing along the battle front and going over the top of the glasses. And the assurance of at least a million fruit-flavored drinks as a starter is found in the cable order just received by C. V. Hubbard, general secretary of the overseas department of the Y. M. C. A. war work council, from the organization's official in France. The message follows:

"Send quickly concentrated fruit sirups for one million summer drinks." And the Y. M. C. A. war work council has a way of sending quickly anything ordered sent quickly. So it is a sure thing that when the heat begins to give the American soldier boys an awful thirst, they will turn gratefully from the trenches to the "Y" huts where they received hot chocolate last winter, and there they will clamor for a "strawberry," or a "rasberry sody."

Possibly to assure plenty of foam, the same cablegram ordered the war work council to send one ton of shaving soap, while the other creature comforts for soldiers, among the items required, were four American pool tables, ten tons chocolate bars, ten tons granulated sugar, ten tons flour, ten tons assorted cigarettes and five tons smoking tobacco.

GIRLS TO RAISE PIGS

There Are 500 Young People Enrolled in Contest.

Seven girls will raise thoroughbred pigs this year in Tuscarawas county, O., to compete in state and county contests. Five hundred boys and girls are enrolled in corn, pig, poultry, clothing and food clubs under the supervision of Miss Minnie Porter, county leader of boys' and girls' club work.

Poultry raisers already have set 3,750 purchased eggs for hatching. The seven girls who will raise pigs are Thelma Shoemaker of Tuscarawas, Phyllis Hoopengardner and Grace McCullough of Winfield, Margaret Schlemmer of Stanburg, Mary Streh and Mary Loefer of Farrell and Zella Wiegand of Sugar creek township.

These girls will try to bring the pig raising championship of the state to this county. Two years ago the champion pig grower in Ohio was a girl. It was said her success was due to the fact that she gave her pig a bath once a week.

HUNTERS DISCOVER LAKE

It Was in Their County but They Never Heard of It.

The Salina Gun club has found a large lake near Salina, Kan., for the fall and spring hunting seasons, and has leased the property for a term of years as a private reserve.

The lake is in the southern part of the county, and many of the old-time hunters never knew of its existence until this spring. The lake covers 30 acres, and when it has been improved, including a large dam, the surface covered with water will be about 40 acres. On one side of the lake there is a sandy beach with the water running from shallow to deep water and it may be made a bathing place.

It is also fitted with fish of several varieties. Lumber is now being shipped to the place for a house which will be erected at once. The Gun club will have the exclusive use of the property.

WESLEY IS FIGHTING MAD

Because He Was Rejected by Marines on Account of Defective Teeth.

John Paul Wesley, a patriotic young man of St. Paul, Minn., is mad. In fact he is not only fighting mad, but greatly disappointed.

The cause for John Paul's anger and disappointment is that he was rejected for the U. S. marine corps because of defective teeth.

"Sherman said war is hell—I," stormed John Paul, "but I think your examination is even worse. Just because I'm not able to bite the Kaiser, I'm rejected. What do you want me to do, kill 'em and then eat 'em too?"

"Sorry, old man," said Sgt. Frank Buck. "Go see a dentist and then come back. Maybe there'll be a chance then."

Stop Combination Sales.

"Combination sales" are forbidden under a new ruling of the Massachusetts food administration. "Combination sales" are, according to the definition of the food administration, any sales of two or more commodities, or different kinds or sizes, at a price effective only if they are bought at the same time.

FEED REFUGEES ON FRENCH TRAIN

American Red Cross in Paris
Quickly Answers Emergency Call.

HOMELESS LAUGH AND JOKE

No Bitterness, No Complaint, No Despair Among People, Many of Whom Were Refugees for Second and Third Time.

Paris.—"A thousand refugees from the east of Amiens will pass through Acheron at seven o'clock tonight. They will not have had any supper, some of them may not have had any lunch. There is no food there and no facilities for feeding them. Can you help us?"

That was the telephone message from the French minister of the interior which came to the American Red Cross at noon one day during the German drive on Amiens, and the answer was "Yes. Emergency messages are no surprise to us these days." The food was ordered out of the warehouses and a score of volunteers rounded up.

They started at six o'clock the same evening. One five-ton truck loaded with tinned beef and condensed milk, figs, prunes, chocolate and heaps of huge loaves of war bread; two carloads of midnight volunteers, stenographers, bureau chiefs, drivers and canteen workers set out on their way to bring help to the homeless refugees.

They rolled out through the residential district of Paris, out past the fortifications, bumped through grimy factory suburbs and on into the open country where the level plains stretch off into infinite distance, broken only by interminable rows of slim poplars.

Then suddenly without warning, there emerged from the forest into a black ambo of railway tracks, cinders, flat-cars, passenger cars, sheds, platforms, warehouses, cranes—Acheron. It was the junction point, where the thousands of refugees were to stop for half an hour.

Saluted With One Arm.

Lieutenant M— met us there, saluted stiffly with his one arm, and did the honors of the station. A group of weary, muddy "permalasloires," most of them over forty, just back from the Champagne front, were routed out to help establish our tables on the cinders between the tracks, and pile the food where it could conveniently be passed into the train.

They unloaded bread, scraped cheese, opened tins of "bully beef," knocked the tops off the boxes of figs and prunes and made plans to feed a thousand people in half an hour. Just somewhere off in the silent country the train, packed full of exiles, was standing on a side track. It was after two in the morning when the long train with its 28 carriages filled with refugees came into Acheron.

A few windows were opened; tired faces looked out and voices asked, uninterestedly, "Where are we?" and were surprised to be told that they were near Paris. The train was on its way, they said to Tulle in the Correse department, in the south of France.

"Will they treat us well there?" an old woman asked and they, in the fullness of their ignorance, not daring to say otherwise, answered "Yes."

It was a short half hour. They carried them bread, they filled the old woman's apron with figs and prunes, they gave milk to the children, meat to the old men, cheese to everybody. They algorithmed cakes of sweet chocolate in a rapid and mysterious manner. Some of them were the much belated women of Picardy and some were grizzled old farmers. Others were city folk, obviously not used to third class travel. There were families of three generations huddled together on their way—somewhere. Some clutched precious umbrellas, some carried bird cages, some alarm clocks. Some of them had dogs, some had rats. But the pathos of it all was not on the surface. Some of them quietly told that they were refugees for the second and third time and laughed and joked when they woke up. There was no bitterness, no complaint, no despair.

Grand Pile Fell Away.

The huge pile of bread fell away the fig boxes were emptied, the tin were all handed into the trains. The engine shrieked a shrill French whistle and the train pulled away. The refugees were in the silence of the night. One of many thousands of refugees had had one dreary midnight meal far from home—one lonely meal out of hundreds, perhaps thousands before them.

A train load of wounded from the front joggled in ten minutes later. The men nurses carried water through the carriages swiftly and silently. Then the Americans handed out the remnants of their stores of figs and the train slipped away again. Behind them could be heard the dull booming of the barrage guns about Paris, and the vibrations knew that another air raid was on. They waited until the barrage stopped, then they headed back through the defenses of the capital. There was a faint light as they rode back through the forest. They could see clumps of yellow daffodils utter oblivious of war.

TWO AMERICANS RECAPTURED

HUNS NEAR HAMEL HELD YAN-KEES AND FIVE AUSTRALI-ANS ONLY BRIEF WHILE

With the British Army in France, July 9.—In the German counter-attack against the new positions gained by the Australians and Americans around Hamel two Americans and five Australians were captured by the enemy. Volunteers were called for and an American party brought back the captured men and a German officer, while twelve Australians brought the number of German prisoners to fifty.

The story of the incident as told by an American officer who took part in the fighting follows:

"The hoes did not bother us until Thursday night when they made their counter-attack which was repulsed. They did succeed in the first rush, however, in getting hold of two Americans and five Australians whom they carried back.

"We immediately called for volunteers to go after these captured lads and all our men began at once yelling for the chance. Corporal Raymond Powell was the first up and he was given a squad of men for the work.

"The guns had put down a heavy barrage, but the corporal led his men straight through the fierce fire and charged hot foot after the retreating enemy. The Germans retired to a strong point, but the corporal with the other Yankees went in after them.

"Our two boys were retaken along with the five Australians and the corporal and his party also captured a hoche officer. In the meantime 12 Australians had circled around and joined the American party with the result that fifty German prisoners were brought back.

Recounting the story he had heard of the grit of an American corporal, the officer continued:

"An Australian officer was telling me about one of our corporals who did what was considered was a fine piece of work. This lad had charge of a machine gun squad. Early in the push all his comrades were knocked out by the shell fire, and he was left alone with the gun.

"He knew that the gun was needed so he started forward with it himself. It was no light job but he kept setting it up and working it until he got through to the final objective, where he made his final stand. He was pumping away religiously at the boches and the Australian officer was watching him with keen interest for he knew he was a green man and admired the way he was carrying on.

Suddenly the corporal raised himself upon his feet and then dropped to his knees again with head hanging.

"What's the matter Yank, are you hit?" called the officer.

"No sir," replied the corporal quickly, "but do you know this darned thing don't kick at all."

"After fighting magnificently with his gun so long, the corporal had made that big discovery and he simply stopped firing for a moment to inspect his gun with new interest. The officer was delighted with the soldier's action and told the story to us later."

TORPEDOED IN MID-OCEAN

THREE OF NORWEGIAN STEAMER'S CREW ARE DROWNED WHEN LIFE BOAT TURNS IN STORM.

An Atlantic Port, July 9.—Another neutral ship, the Norwegian steamer Augvold, 2,098 tons, bound from a French port for Baltimore, has fallen a victim of a German submarine. A trans-Atlantic liner in port today brought the news of the sinking of the Augvold in mid-ocean on June 23 and also landed eleven members of the crew of 27 men. Three of the crew were drowned, and the remaining thirteen were unaccounted for.

The rescued men were picked up by the liner later having drifted helplessly for eleven days, subsisting most of that time on sea weed and rain water wrung from their clothing or caught in their caps. They were in an exhausted condition when picked up, but by careful nursing on board the liner they had fairly recovered when they reached here.

According to members of the crew who told their story in fragments over the side of the liner when she docked, the sea wolf adopted hit same methods as used by the U-boats in their recent operations off the Atlantic coast. The steamer was stopped by shell fire, the crew ordered into two boats, and the ship was then sunk with bombs.

Capt. Egge of the Augvold, left the ship with 12 men in his boat and became separated from the other lifeboat containing fourteen of the crew. For two days the latter boat drifted about and was then upset in a storm. Three of the men were swept away, and the others managed to right the boat and hale her out. They lost all their food and fresh water, had even their oars "gone" gone.

Drifting helplessly, the men began to suffer for want of food and water. Day after day went by and finally on July 4, they were rescued.

STOLEN MONEY EASILY FOUND

YOUTHFUL NEGRO BOY TAKES NICE SUM FROM HOME ON NORTH MAIN.

Thos. Bronaugh, a colored boy about 14 years of age, is charged with stealing $94.60 from a purse hanging on a hall tree in the hall at Johnson Court Monday night. The purse belonged to Miss Loretta Donaldson who is a boarder. She and Mrs. W. A. Cornette had gone out to Mrs. Cornette's father's, Mr. Low Johnson, and everybody else had left the boarding house except Mrs. Alma Paxton, who was alone at the house.

The colored boy works for Ned Turner's Tailor Shop and came to deliver a suit of clothes for Mr. Cornette. While Mrs. Paxton held a vicious dog off the boy he entered the hall to leave the clothes and it was then that he discovered the purse and took the cash.

On Miss Donaldson's return she missed the $94.60 and the matter was immediately reported to Night Chief Hawkins who immediately went to work to learn the name of the boy and to locate him. This was easily done, however, and the boy was found on Sixth street near Postell's saloon. He had $74.60 of the money in his pocket and admitted having loaned $20 to a boy to engage in a crap game which was scheduled to take place just outside the city limits on the Clarksville pike. This game was soon located and luckily, the boy who had the $20 was winning and the money recovered. This represented quick and shrewd work on the part of Lieut. Hawkins and the police and others assisting him.

"Peasant women, in the gay shawl and gaudy jewelry of their native country, converse among themselves. While the picturesque casks from Serbia give a strange air to what used to be a placid street in old Dutch Manhattan.

"At a first glance at the spirited life of the street, these people seem to have nothing in common with the rest of the country. But you understand that this is not a separate and alien civilization, when you see the service flags of coarsest bunting (looking somehow very luminous in the morning sunlight), the flags waving from the fire-escapes and the Red Cross gleaming in the windows."

"BETTER BE SAFE THAN SORRY"

Case Tractors represent the highest development of tractors. They are the pioneer tractors of America. They are backed by three-quarters of a century of successful experience in manufacturing farm machinery. They are a proved success—not an experiment.

Case Tractors are fully tested before they leave the factory. They must develop power in excess of their rating. They must qualify for the hard work demanded of them on the farm!

Case Tractors are made in five sizes. Each one carries a guarantee to perform as well, or better, than any other on a given job. There's a size for you.
